

Only a Has-Been Can Afford to Relax

By Count Marco

Marriage is like show business: To be a success you have to work at it constantly.

Anyone wishing to succeed on the stage works hard and long, reviewing techniques of the trade, learning new ones and striving constantly to improve his style.

In most cases it takes years of this constant plodding, and many heartaches, before he sees his name appear in lights. But when it blinks from the marquee, every difficult step of the way is well worth the effort.

So it is with good wives. Once they have reached the peak of perfection, they don't relax and expect to stay up there without having to put forth even more effort than ever before.

Remember, success requires much harder work than failure. Any woman can be a failure in marriage—and a great number of you American women fail before the "I dos" are final. The successful one who works at keeping her marriage exciting and alive is the real star in her home-made production.

He never sees you with off-stage make-up, nor does he see you in some ragpicker role with your messy at-home clothes. In his sight you will always be on stage, saying the right lines, throwing the correct cues, looking the part of a wife at all times and believing so much in your role that you project it naturally.

Even if you've made a mess of your marriage to date, just as some actresses have flops, you can get back up there and make it back into top billing with him.

The going may be a little rough, but then of course you want to keep that wifely role, don't you. If you don't, quite a few other women would like to understudy you.

Once he gives you star billing in his plot, your glory will be far beyond your dreams. You'll be his leading lady for the rest of his happy life (which will make you happy, too).

Savings and Loan Industry Honors 146 County Students

One hundred and forty-six Los Angeles County high school seniors were honored Tuesday as Outstanding Student award winners in the program co-sponsored by the county's savings and loan associations and the California Savings and Loan League.

The students were guests of honor at a recognition luncheon in Los Angeles, attended by high school principals, faculty representatives, school administrative officials, parents of the winners, and savings and loan executives.

Student winners from the Torrance area were Rita Mae Buch, Bishop Montgomery; Franklin Nelson Stanley, Torrance High; Richard D. Parker, North Torrance; John Timothy May, West Torrance, and Roxanne Jean Ross, Narbonne.

Local sponsors were Southwest Savings and Loan, Marina Federal Savings and Loan, and Glendale Federal Savings & Loan.

D. W. Ferguson, Los Angeles County chairman of the California Savings and Loan League's school relations committee, presided at the luncheon. Principal speaker was Dr. Louis H. Evans, retired national minister-at-large of the United Presbyterian churches. Congratulations to the students were delivered by Fred C. Stalder, vice president of the California Savings and Loan League, while Aubrey H.

Simons, superintendent of Pomona city schools, delivered congratulations from the education profession.

The $80,000 outstanding student award program was initiated six years ago by the California savings and loan business. It is unique in that the principals of senior high schools in the state are asked to select an outstanding student for the cash award and the medallion.
